

Private Pay Home-Delivered Meals FAQ

Q What is the cost of meals on the Private Pay Program?

Each meal, consisting of a protein, a starch, a vegetable, bread, dessert, and beverage, costs $9.50. If you received five meals per week (delivered daily or once a week as a box of frozen meals) the cost will be $47.50. Clients can start service with as little as two meals per week ($19.00).

Q Where do you deliver meals to? What time are meals delivered?

Private Pay meals can be delivered to clients anywhere within the state of RI. We usually deliver meals to clients' homes but can make alternative arrangements as requested. Clients can expect delivery between 9AM – 2PM.

Q Can I pay for meals with my EBT/SNAP benefits?

Yes! Meals on Wheels RI can accept EBT/SNAP benefits for Private Pay meals. Clients need only request EBT/SNAP vouchers upon intake.

Q When I enroll, is there a minimum subscription obligation?

No. Clients can enroll for as little as one week of service and can cancel service at any time. Clients will receive refunds for any meals that were paid for but went undelivered due to early program termination.

Q What are the menu options?

Private Pay clients can choose from our five available menus. CLICK HERE to see our meal plan menus. Clients are able to change their meal plans if they would like to try a different menu but should expect to receive meals from a single menu weekly. Clients cannot receive meals from more than one menu in a single week.

Q What is the difference between daily and weekly delivery?

Clients can choose between a daily or weekly delivery schedule. Daily meals are delivered Monday – Friday (or on weekdays of clients' choosing). Meals delivered daily arrive chilled and follow the monthly menu calendar.

Weekly meals arrive in a box of five frozen meals, snacks, bread, and juices, and are delivered Tuesday, Wednesday, or Thursday, depending on clients' preferences. Frozen box meals do not follow the menu calendar, so MOWRI cannot tell clients which meals from their chosen menu will be in each box. The cost per meal is the same regardless of the delivery schedule.
